Whakapapa

In October 2022, the Ministry was gifted the platform’s official name and whakapapa by Dr Wayne Ngata: Tāhūrangi.

Tāhū, often referred to as Tāhuhu, is the central ridgepole that runs the length of a whareniui. This pole is important within any whare; it not only holds it up but also depicts the whakapapa of those who descend from it. Its use within the name is also a reflection of Te Tāhuhu o te Mātauranga, acknowledging that the new curriculum platform is a taonga the Ministry of Education is responsible for.

Rangi, as in Ipurangi or internet, is used here to describe knowledge that sits within the sky (often referred to as information in “the cloud”). Rangi also refers to Ranginui, the atua who takes care of everything across the sky.

Introduction

Welcome to Tāhūrangi, our new digital home for teaching and learning resources from early learning through to secondary schooling across the national curriculum of Aotearoa New Zealand. This guide introduces many of its different parts to help users make the most of the various resources and information available on the site. While many features will already be familiar, this guide will help users figure out the rest.

Getting Started

On the Tāhūrangi home page, a welcome message appears along with three curriculum tiles: Te Whāriki Online, Te Marautanga o Aotearoa, and New Zealand Curriculum Online.

Navigate to your chosen curriculum by clicking on one of the three curriculum tiles or on the buttons of the same name at the top and bottom toolbars.

Toggle the “Language” button to switch between English and te reo Māori.

The homepage also has a news section for the latest curriculum news from Te Tāhuhu o te Mātauranga | Ministry of Education.

Te Whāriki Online Resource Search

Start your search for resources related to Te Whāriki Online by:

- using the search bar at the very top of the homepage
- using the navigation bar to explore the different areas (or landing pages) related to Te Whāriki Online
- using the second search bar in the body of any landing page.

Search bars are easily identifiable by their spyglass icon and te reo Māori words “rapua ki” (search for).

Refine search results by selecting one or more of the filters on the side of the search results page.

Tāhūrangi also enables users to search and access all the resources across the other curricula quickly and easily by selecting the Tāhūrangi tab on the search results page. Click the curriculum area to see all the available resources in each area. Search results automatically open in a new tab.

The search page also enables access to any artefacts (support materials) that match your search results or to access external sites, such as national libraries, by selecting those tabs.

Te Whāriki Online Resource Tiles

Resource tiles appear when a search is performed and after navigating to a landing page using the navigation bar. These tiles provide the following information:

- Image: A thumbnail (small picture) that represents the resource.
- Title: The name of the resource.
- Description: A summary of what the resource contains.
- Tags: Two tags appear on the tile; the top tag indicates who the resource is intended for, and the bottom tag indicates the language the resource is in.
- Kete: The kete, represented by the basket icon, functions much like a shopping cart, allowing resources to be added directly to it. The resources in the kete can be viewed and downloaded at any time. Refer to the "Kete" section of this guide for more details.
- Plus symbol: Click on the plus symbol to add resources directly to one of your personalised collections, so that you can come back to it quickly at any time. This feature is currently only available to those with an Education Sector Logon (ESL). Refer to the "Collections" section of this guide for more details.
- Arrow: Click on the arrow to open the resource.

Resource Features

Te Whāriki Online resources on Tāhūrangi have several different features.

The header section at the top of the page (pictured below) contains the following:

- Kete: Click here to view and download resources previously added to your kete. Refer to the “Kete” section of this guide for more details.
- Support Button: Click here to view information such as the whakapapa of Tāhūrangi, user guides, and contact details.
- Navigation Bar: Click here to find resources, either using the search feature or the navigation bar. The navigation bar has drop-downs. Resources for specific learning areas can be found under “Learning Content and Resources.”
- Links (to other curricula): Click on either of the two icons for New Zealand Curriculum Online and Te Marautanga o Aotearoa to be directed to these two curriculum sites on Tāhūrangi.
- Breadcrumbs: Breadcrumbs indicate where the user is within the site according to the resource that is open, allowing them to easily navigate back to the broader area it sits within.

Signing in

While resources, information, and many of the features and functions of Tāhūrangi are available to all users, educators with an Education Service Logon (ESL) will have access to a few extra features.

Use your ESL to:

- create a personal profile
- curate personalised resource collections
- share your collections with other ESL educators and gain access to other educators' collections
- subscribe to the Tāhūrangi communications channel
- view your download history (downloads from your kete).

There are two different areas on Tāhūrangi where you can sign in using your ESL:

1. Via the sign-in option on the header bar
2. Via the kete download page

Option 1: Via the sign-in option on header bar (in red below).

Our Curriculum / Te Whāriki / Te Ara Māori

Te Ara Māori

Read Te Ara Māori, a te ao Māori expression of the principles, strands, goals, and learning outcomes of Te Whāriki, which was published in the New Zealand Gazette in April 2023.

Option 2: Via the kete download page

Once signed in, you will automatically be signed out after 20 minutes if your computer is inactive. Otherwise, you will be automatically signed out after 60 minutes to ensure your details are kept secure.

If you do not have an Education Service Logon (ESL), please send your enquiry to service.desk@education.govt.nz.

Creating a Personal Profile

Once signed in, create a personal profile by selecting as few, or as many, descriptors about yourself and add your interests. Alternatively, choose tags from the search bar.

Once Tāhūrangi is fully functional, the system will remember your preferences to personalise your experience. For example, if you choose to receive communications from Tāhūrangi, the information you receive will reflect the preferences you selected when creating your profile.

Your personal information will be kept secure. To learn more about privacy and security, refer to our privacy statement in the page footer or email tahurangi@education.govt.nz for more information.

Kete

The kete (the basket icon circled in red below) functions like a shopping cart, allowing items to be added. These can be reviewed and downloaded within the same browser session.

A pop-up menu will appear on the right-hand side of the screen. At the bottom of this menu, click “Finalise Kete.”

From here, you can either download resources to your device immediately by clicking either “Download” or the check box and entering your email address for a link to your kete to be sent to your inbox. This link will re-open your kete where you can download the resources. This link is valid for 72 hours.

Click on the kete icon to add support materials to your kete to download at any time. This is ideal when not connected to Wi-Fi.

Please note that while the site is still being developed, some resources may not be available at the time you add them to your kete. We are working hard to ensure all resources will be available soon.

Creating a Collection

Currently, the collection function is only available to those with a registered ESL, which enables logged-in ESL users to save resources in curated collections.

This function, however, is still under development. Users can create resource collections across Tāhūrangi but are currently limited to viewing and downloading resources from within each curriculum area (not across the whole site).

Until this function is available, to view all your saved resources within the collection you have created in Te Whāriki Online, Te Marautanga o Aotearoa, or New Zealand Curriculum Online, you must return to that curriculum area via its homepage.

When a user is logged in using the "Sign in" button, or "Waitohu mai" when the page is toggled to show te reo Māori, the header will change to their preferred name according to their ESL profile. To find all saved collections, a user must sign into their profile and then click their name in the header.

Sharing Collections

To share your saved collections with others, click the check box at the top of a collection and then the "Share Collections" button. You will then be prompted to add the email address of the ESL-registered user you would like to share with.

The screenshot shows the user interface of the Tāhūrangi - Te Whāriki Online platform. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the logo, search bar, user name 'Joe', and a 'SUPPORT' button. Below this is a green patterned banner. A 'Welcome Back' message is displayed in a white box on a dark background. The 'My Collections' section features two collection cards. The first card, 'Aotearoa NZH', has a red border around its image and a red box around its top-left checkbox. The second card, 'Te Petihana 1972', has a grey border and a grey checkbox. A red box highlights a share icon in the top right corner of the 'My Collections' section. Below the collections is a 'Pending collections' section with a checkmark and a close icon.

Glossary
